COMMUNICATED. THE INVADER-BY J. B. JOHNSON.

The most inexcusable variety of war is the in men and money, in comparison with those against whom he proposes to war. His feeling is like that of a braggart, when an inspection of the physical appearance of his opponent, induces him to infec that he will have an easy triumph. It is this reliance which makes his intentions a matter of might, and not of right, and gives him a contempt for the remonstrance of the power that he designs to destroy. The glare of specious excuses, and the promise of plunder, soon bring around him desperate characters enough to do his bidding; and, knowing that the confines of the country which he determines to invade are not impenetrable to his march he starts on his crusade, and conducts his campaigns as unpityingly as opposing circumstances will permit them to be. When upon the seil which he intends to overrun, he abrogates all its law and order, and the measure of his will becomes the rule of his martial sphere. All that he sees belongs to those whom he has made his enemies, and, feeling that his hostile presence makes almost levery man against whom he wars, his foe, he trusts none beyond his orders, and all the natives that adhere to the land he invades, are brought to know the ruthless rigor of a vandal strife. He sparesneither sex nor age, and learful sorrow, and gaunt desolation, follow in his track. The more arduous his struggle, the more heartless he becomes. Success quickens his desire for authority; and, emboldened by a fortunate inclination of his plans, he strives to force all to yield to the gratification of his wishes, and havoe and dismay, riot in the war-path. He makes his arbitrary power most stringently lelt: and strange sights, and shocking sounds mark the horror of his progress. The sentiments of religion, and the precepts of principles are alike valueless to him, and he sweeps in an instant, the accumulated fruit of a life-time's labor into worthlessness and ruin. He violates all civil law, and being the unquestioned judge of his own acts, no order of his is ever allowed to bring the blush of shame to his cheek. He too often hushes the pious prayers of ministers of the gospel who refuse to use at the throne of peace the words which his sacrilegious lips dictate, and destroys sacred edifices to appease the whim of his offended opinion. He yields dwellings, mills and graneries as fue to his torch, and the tools of husbandry, and the implements of trade, share the ire of his ban. He destroys the temples of justice, and turns into ashes the records of marriage, legitimacy and property. He gives license to injustice by breaking the bonds of society, and leaves the transactions of the business of life. He sometimes violates the grave by demolishing its sacred mementos, searches the bodies of the sepulchre, and robs the inanimate mass of the of the most celebrated der care of relatives. Strucktures of laarning vanish before his tread, and valuable books suitable for Parlors, Dining Rooms, Halls, &c. and cherished paintings are cast blurred and All orders for PAPERING Private Dwellings in opposition to him, into instruments of torture to them; and teaches those who follow him, a contempt for liberty of person, and oppose him in sentiment. Such is the conduct of the invader as sketched by history, when he attempts to overrun those who are superior to him, in every human attribute, save that of the brute power of numbers; and whether the inhabitants of the country which he invades are brought to submission to his impious power, or rise superior to his insolent mandates, and drive him impotent from their soil, his culpability is ever the same, and life gives him no Lethean stream to wash his name from the impress of the wickedness which his deeds work; for he commits more sin, and produces more havoc, in the short period of one year's reign of the armed influence of his hate and cupidity, than a myriad of good men could atone for and repair in a life time. It he fails, the people whom he attempted to subdue will recover as they do from a pestilence, or as a flower does when the rude pressure that crushed it, is removed; but if he succeeds, all soon droops and withers, save that feeling an injured people always have for him who owes his notoriety or importance to those acts by which he wantonly accomplished their distress and ruin.

ORGANIC WEAKNESS

Immediately cured and full vigor restored. This distressing affection, which renders life miserable and marriage impossible, is the penalty paid by the victims of impropriety.— Young persons are too apt to commit excesses from not being aware of the dreadful consequences that may ensue. Now, who that understands the subject will pretend to deny that the power of procreation is lost sooner by those falling into improper habits than by the prudent? Besides being deprived of the pleas are of healthy offspring, the most serious and destructive symptoms of both body and minarise. The System becomes deranged, the Physical and Mental Functions Weakened, Loss of Procreative Power, Nervous Irritability, Dyspepsia, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Constitutional Debility, and Wasting of the Frame, Consumption, Decay and Death.

DR. JOHNSON, Member of the Royal College of Surgeons London, Graduate of one of the most eminent Colleges in the United States, and the greater part of whose life has been spent in the hospitals of London, Paris, Philadelphia, and else where, has effected some of the most astonish ing cures that were ever known, many troubled with ringing in the head and ears when asleep, great nervousness, being alarmed at sudden sounds, bashfulness, with frequent blushing, attended sometimes with derangement of mind, were cured immediately. TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE. Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves by suproper indulgence and soli-tary habits, which ruin both body and mind, infitting them for either business, study, socie ty or marriage.

These are some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, viz Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Pains in the Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of Muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Neryous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Functions, General Debility, Symptoms of Consumption, &c. MENTALLY .- The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded. Loss of Memory, Confusion of Ideas, Depression of Spirits, Evil Forebodings, Averson to Society, Self Distrust, Love of Solitude, Timidity, &c., are some of the evils produced. Thousands of persons of all ages can now judge what is the cause of their declining health, losing their vigor, becoming weak, pale, neryous and emaciated, having a singular appearance about the eyes, Cough, and Symptoms of Consumption. YOUNG MEN, Who have injured themselves by a cer tain practice, indulged in, a habit fro quently learned from evil companions, or at school, the effects of which are nightly felt, even when asleep, and, if not cured, renders marriage impossible, and destroys both mind and body, should apply immediately.

What a pity that a young man, the hope of his country, the pride of his parents, should be snatched from all prespects and enjoyments of life by the consequence of deviating from the path of nature, and indulging in a certain secret habit. Such persons must, before contem-MARRIAGE, effect that a sound mind and body are the recel necessary requisites to promote connubial happiness. Indeed, without these the journey through life becomes a weary pilgrimage; the prosp et hourly darkens to the view, the mind becomes shadowed with despair and filled with the melancholy reflection that the happiness of another becomes blighted with your own. DISEASES OF IMPRUDENCE. When the misguided and imprudent votary of pleasure finds that he has imbibed the seeds of this painful disease it too often happens that an ill-timed sense of shame or dread of discovery deters him from applying to those, who from education and respectability, can alone befriend him, delaying till the constitutional symptoms of this horrid disease make their appearance, such as ulcerated sore throat, diseased nose, necturnal pains in the head and limbs, diamess of sight, deafness, nodes on the shin-bones and arms, blotches on the head, face and extremities, progressing with frightful rapidity extremities, progressing with frightful rapidity till at last the palate of the mouth or the bones of the nose fall in, and the victim of this awiul disease becomes a horrid object of commissoration, till death puts a period to his dreadful sufferings, by sending him to "that Undiscovered Country from whence no traveller returns."

It is a MELANCHOLY FACT that thou sands fall victims to this terrible disease, owing to the unskilfulness of ignorant pretenders, w 10 the use of that DEADLY POISON, MF R.
